Youth Roundtable April 22-23

The Southeastern Youth Roundtable of the Church of the Brethren convenes on the Bridgewater College campus Saturday and Sunday, April 22-23, 1967.

The annual youth roundtable will bring hundreds of high school Brethren youth of local churches from Maryland to Florida.

Theme for this year is "Agape A-go-go!" and will feature the addresses of Rev. Willard Dulabaum, pastor of the Ridgeway Community Church of the Brethren, Harrisburg, Pa. The roundtable will open with the annual speech contests with representatives from each of the nine districts. Opportunities for recreation, talk-back, worship and drama are being planned.

NSF Grant For Summer Program

The National Science Foundation has notified Bridgewater College that a grant of $11,695 has been approved for the support of another Secondary Science Training Program on the B. C. campus this summer. The grant is under the direction of Dr. Dean Neher, professor of physics.

Similar to previous such grants, the educational program will bring to Bridgewater's campus as many as 40 outstanding secondary students from a number of states for special summer activities in science.

There have been over 250 inquiries from 39 states and 3 foreign countries concerning the 40 places available in this year's NSF Summer Program at Bridgewater.

New Dean Named

Dr. Dale V. Ulrich, associate professor of physics at Bridgewater, has been named academic dean of the college and will take up his new post July 1.

Dr. Ulrich succeeds Dr. John W. Boitnott who is retiring on June 30. Dr. Boitnott has been dean of Bridgewater since 1947.

A native of Wenatchee, Washington, Dr. Ulrich is a graduate of LaVerne College (Cal.) and took his graduate work at the Universities of Oregon and Virginia. He held a department of physics fellowship at Virginia (1962-63) and he was a U. S. Public Health Fellowship Service Predoctoral Fellow there in 1963-64, the year in which he received his doctorate. He came to Bridgewater College in 1958 and taught until 1961 when he went to U. Va. for completion of his doctoral work. He returned to Bridgewater in 1964.

Dr. Ulrich, a member of the American Physical Society, the American Association of Physics Teachers, the Virginia Academy of Science, and of Sigma Xi, has had articles published in leading professional journals. He has initiated research activity in the Bridgewater physics department and has received outstanding NSF grants.

Married to the former Claire Gilbert of Pasadena, Cal., the Ulrichs have three children, Vernon, 10; Daniel, 8; and Sharon, 1.

New Journal Published At B. C.

A new literary journal reviving the name "Philomathean" has made its appearance on the Bridgewater College campus.

The first issue of the semiannual journal was published in February and distributed to faculty and students. Mr. C. E. May '24BA, head of the B. C. English Department, is chairman of the Editorial Board which includes Dr. Dale V. Ulrich, Dr. James A. Mumper, Dr. William G. Willoughby and Mr. Paul M. Kline '53BA.

The purpose of the journal is to "encourage clear, vigorous, correct writing on the part of all students and an artistic writing on the part of the gifted and talented few." The new publication is financed by the college out of the instructional budget.

The first issue of the new "Philomathean" featured poems by Robin Machen '68 and alumnus James W. Lewis '50BA, sculpture by David Wayland '67, grandson of Dr. John Wayland, first editor of the old "Philomathean Monthly," and articles by Linda Andes '69, Eric Rice '69, Dale Hartman '68, and William Royster '67.

B. C. May Day Sat., May 6

Kathy Kevill, May Queen XXXVII

"May Day — Western Style" will be the theme of this year's traditional May Day festivities on the Bridgewater College campus, Saturday, May 6, 1967.

The traditional May Day program will be held on the East Lawn of the campus, between Rebecca and Cole Halls, at 2:00 p.m. The pageant, a musical comedy, is in charge of Michael Betts, Julia Collins, and Dale Hartman. Following the performance, which will have a cast of dozens of students, there will be a tea on the lawn.

Chosen as May Queen XXXVII, is comely little Kathy Kevill, a senior English major from Annandale, Va. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kevill, Kathy is on the Dean's List and contemplates a high school teaching career. Escorting Miss Kevill as the May Queen will be husky senior Guy Stull, B. C.'s football allstar, as May King. Guy is a physical education major from Thurmont, Md.

Attending the "royal" party will be seniors Barbara Purkey and class president Paul Buxton as Duchess and Duke. Senior representatives include Susan Cobb, Nancy Rittenhouse, Mensel Dean, and James Hawley. Junior Class representatives will be Janice Ausherman, Beverly Balogh, Robert Prater and Samuel Zigler.

Representatives of the Sophomore Class will be Karen Palmer, Eleth Wright, George Nipe, Jr., and Paul Staufer. The Freshman Class will have Lois Sulser, Wanda Pugh, Charles Fairchilds, and Dennis Woolfrey.

The day will be climaxed by the May Day Ball, presided over by the Queen and King, in the Alumni Gym, from 9-12. The dance committee chairmen are R. M. Goodwin and Janet Jamison and the band will be the Bachelors of Art, Roanoke, Va.

Many Students Received Aid

Sixty-two Bridgewater students are being financially aided by federally-sponsored Economic Opportunity Grants. Given to the college on a matching basis, more than $23,000 was available this year from this agency. National Defense Student Loans are aiding an additional 137 students for an additional $80,000. Other scholarships and work-aid provided by the college benefit scores of other students. Financial aid from all sources amounts to approximately $130,000 this year.

Clarence May, editor, presents first copy of new "Philomathean" to Pres. Geisert.

B. C. DEBATERS IN TOP HONORS

The Bridgewater College debate team composed of David Penrod and William Royster, two seniors, swept the Eighth Columbia International Debate Tournrey at Columbia University on March 3-4, 1967, to carry off top school honors.

The B. C. team won a gold cup as a permanent trophy and possession for one year of the silver bowl rotating trophy for having finished first. Mr. Royster won third-place speaking honors and was awarded an individual trophy. Mr. Penrod placed tenth in competition for individual speaking honors.

Seventy-two teams from more than 50 colleges and universities scattered across the continent participated in the tournament. Such institutions as the University of Maine, Washington State, University of California at Santa Barbara, Boston University, and Georgia Tech had teams in the tourney.

The question under debate was: "Resolved, that the United States should substantially reduce its foreign policy commitments." Each team debated both sides of the question. In so doing, the Bridgewater team defeated Cornell, Princeton, West Point, Seton Hall, Williams and Iona.

David Penrod, a history major from Springfield, Va., has participated in intercollegiate debating for three years and last year studied abroad at Marburg University.

William Royster, also a history major senior, is from Richmond, Va., and has participated in debating all four years.

The Bridgewater debaters, last fall, won the seventh district DSR-TKA Tournament held at George Washington University and competed in the National DSR-TKA Tournament at Wayne University in Detroit, March 28-April 1.

On March 16 and 17, two other B. C. debaters took first place honors for the third time this season in an intercollegiate tournament at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.

Janet Jamison, senior science major from Ellicott City, Md., and Ernest Deyerle, a pre-ministerial sophomore from Roanoke, Va., won top honors and Mr. Deyerle won the third speaker award in a switch-sides tournament.

Seventy-Nine On Dean's List

Twenty-six men and fifty-three women made the Bridgewater College Dean's List at the end of the first semester. Interestingly, included among the 79 names are two men who were on the basketball team and three women on the girls' basketball teams.

The second semester registered a total enrollment of 831 students. There was a number of students who did not return the second semester for many reasons. Five of these completed their college work and will graduate in June. On the other hand, there were nine students who either returned to college or enrolled at the midyear.

COMMENCEMENT, JUNE 4 TO HEAR THOMPSON

Mr. William P. Thompson, attorney and Stated Clerk of the General Assembly, The United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., will give this year's Commencement address on Sunday, June 4, 1967.

Mr. Thompson, a graduate of McPherson College and the University of Chicago Law School, is a well known churchman and attorney. He was elected to the office of Stated Clerk (Chief Executive Officer) of the General Assembly on May 25, 1966.

Securing Mr. Thompson as the 1967 Commencement speaker was most appropriate because Dr. John W. Boitnott, retiring dean this year, was a favorite professor of Mr. Thompson.

The Baccalaureate Service will be held in College Street Church of the Brethren on Sunday morning, at 11:00 a.m., June 4, 1967. The sermon will be given by Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, president of Bridgewater College.

The Eighty-Seventh Commencement will be held at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday afternoon in the Alumni Gymnasium. Of the 129 candidates for degrees, 5 completed their work in February, 110 are candidates for degrees in June and 14 in August.

Spiritual Life Institute

Attracts Many Church Leaders

THE SEVENTY-SECOND Annual Spiritual Life Institute proved to be another fine experience of inspiration, fellowship and Christian renewal. Leadership this year included: Dr. Nevin H. Zuck, Elizabethtown, Pa.; Dr. Tibor Shikes, Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Paul G. Rademacher, Evangelical Theological Seminary, Naperville, Ill.; Dr. William G. Willoughby, Bridgewater College; Rev. Don R. Allen, Jr., Harrisonburg, Va., and as leader of worship, Dr. J. Paul Gruver, Shenandoah College, Winchester, Va.

Because of inclement weather, the Institute got off to a slow start. Improved weather conditions favored a fine attendance on Wednesday and Thursday. The Messages were all pointed toward the theme of the Institute, "A Relevant Gospel for our Day," with each one tying in closely with the others. The peak attendance was on Wednesday night with over 450 present.

Tentative plans are made for Spiritual Life Institute next year, February 6-8, with the theme, "Discovery Through Discipline."

Dr. Rademacher shared his theological insights with small group of Institute participants in one of the number of "talk-back" sessions.

College-sponsored Spiritual Life Institute provided for moments of fellowship and "shop-talk" among the ministers, wives, and laymen who attended.

B. C. EAGLES IN M-D FINALS

Coach Mel "Shifty" Myers saw his Bridgewater Eagles battle through their season under his leadership and then become the Cinderella team of the Mason-Dixon Conference Tournament.

The Eagles, led by Jim Ellis, Jim Upperman, Eddie Cook, Jim Hawley, Rick Wampler, and Mike Ely, posted a 16-8 regular season record to win third spot in the Southern Division of the Mason-Dixon Championship Tourney and second place in Virginia's Little Eight standings.

In the annual Rotary Holiday Tournament in the Alumni Gym the Eagles lost in the final game to the nationally-rated Millersville (Pa.) State team.

As a climax to their season, the Eagles entered the Mason-Dixon Conference Tourney at Catholic University as nobody's favorite except the Bridgewater partisans. Paired with Loyola in the opening round, the Eagles were given no chance to survive but chalked up a surprise victory 70-66 over the aggressive Baltimore team.

Old Dominion College of Norfolk with its 8305 enrollment and 2575 male students, ran over Baltimore U. 102-53 in its first-round game and became B. C.'s second round opponent. Even the cocky Norfolk sportswriter informed Coach Myers that it was too bad that he had to meet the best team in the Tournament (Old Dominion). Somehow Bridgewater wasn't intimidated and pulled a second miracle by beating the "best team" by a score of 74-68, in the semifinal round.

Pitted against Mount St. Marys', the Conference's elite team and perennial champion, the Eagles battled against insurmountable odds and superior height and experience. The Mounts took the championship game piling up a final score of 84-68. The Bridgewater Eagles this season reached a new level of achievement in their season record and in going to the finals of the M-D tourney.

Greatly missed next year will be little Jim Hawley, B. C. playmaker and big Jim Ellis, both seniors and former W. & L. High School teammates.

James "Stick" Ellis was selected on everybody's all-star team. He was named to the W. & L., and to the Emory & Henry "Opponents" teams and on the Virginia Little Eight first team.

B. C. Hardballers Rebuild

Bridgewater's baseball team has only four lettermen returning with a whole new pitching staff to develop to a real contender this year.

Coach Jim Reedy lost two ace pitchers for academic reasons and will need to replace last year's strong catcher, Ted Reavis and the slug-ging outfield. Only the infield appears to be solid.

Co-captains this year will be Ray Lynn Heatwole and Guy Stull. Last year's versatile shortstop, Eddie Cook, may be drafted for pitching chores and roam the outfield. Other pitchers include Jess Lynch and T. A. Fleetwood. Forrest Caricofe is a likely candidate of those out for catching duties.

This year's schedule will include 20 games, opening with a contest with Central Connecticut State on March 29 and closing with a contest with Randolph-Macon at Ashland.

Former Women's Coach Receives Ph.D.

Miss Ruth E. Tandy, former women's athletic director at Bridgewater College from 1950-55 and from 1957-61, was awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Ohio State University in December, 1966. She is presently an instructor at Ohio State.

B C EAGLE BASKETBALL M-D FINALISTS:

Eaglettes Sweep Season

Bridgewater's women basketball teams marked up another successful season, posting a 14-2 for the Varsity team, and a 14-1 for the Junior Varsity.

The Varsity team, led by Pat Nunnally, Alice Phillips, and Barbara Purkey, lost only to William and Mary and to Lynchburg. They had previously vanquished Lynchburg. They took two games from Roanoke, Madison and Eastern Mennonite; single games from Old Dominion, Westhampton, Frostburg, Hollins, University of Maryland, Elizabethtown and Salisbury (Md.) State.

Perhaps the highlight of the season was the phenomenal performance against Salisbury State when the Varsity Eaglettes raced to a 99-15 score, only to be thwarted in the last minute from going over 100.

The Junior Eaglettes, not to be outdone, had an undefeated season going until the last game with Madison College which they lost by three points.

Coach Laura Mapp's only comment on the success of the two teams was, "a tremendous team effort all season."

Summer Sports Camp On Campus

A privately operated Shenandoah Sports Camp will be held on the Bridgewater College campus this summer from June 18 through August 6.

Directed by Mort F. Irwin, Annandale, Va., there will be seven weeks of summer basketball, wrestling, and football instruction for high school boys below the senior year.

Some of the sports-world greats are listed among the staff specialists. Among the pro football stars are the names of Dick Shiner, Chris Hanburger, Paul Krause, and Pat

Bells! Bells! Bells!

Miss Mattie V. Glick '20BA

*Again I hear them soft and low, come sweeping o'er the plain
With feelings once 'twas bliss to know, and bliss to feel again.
For I have dwelt where music all the soul with rapture swells
I ne'er heard sounds could thrill my heart like thine, my village bells --*
Anonymous

After 47 years of association and service to Bridgewater College, Miss Mattie retired in 1957. She had been secretary to five B. C. presidents and acting president.

For many years she was secretary and mainstay of the Bridgewater College Alumni Association and preserved many records and searched out many problems.

Miss Mattie continues her avid interest and loyalty to her alma mater. She serves as an alumni fund class agent, clipper of news items, and researcher of Bridgewater history. The accompanying article on "Bridgewater Bells" is the work of love by Miss Mattie and Miss Miriam Bowman, who gave valuable assistance.

Bells, bells, bells--College Bells at Bridgewater. The lovely sounding bell on Memorial Hall; the high-toned bell atop the old "White House;" the little hand bell of the elementary school. What a story they tell!

One also recalls other bells of long ago. They tell their own specific story. Bells that called people to worship; bells that rang for the happy bride; bells that announced a birth; bells that called the farmer from the field; bells that gave a sound to death or to a fire, or to some other tragedy; bells that tolled the funeral dirge; and then the sweetest of all, the evening bells that called the earth and its inhabitants to quietness and slumber.

All of these bells have a history -- a captivating history -- beautiful like the sound of bells, but the B. C. bells -- that's my story.

In this story, the little hand bell of the old elementary school rings out in one's imagination. It is the oldest of these memorable bells that lived their span of life on this campus, all of which were manipulated by the touch of a human hand. It was true to the period of its day. There were many other such bells that sang a song of fleeting time. Many still hear them in reminiscent moods. School bells and romance! How sweet their memory.

Prior to and including 1913, the college operated an elementary school for both the children of the faculty and those of the community. In fact, some of the degree graduates of the college started their schooling here and continued through the preparatory and college course without even attending any other school. A little hand bell called the little people to their classroom.

Then, on the college level, the high-toned bell atop the old "White House" of B. C. called. It called the sleeping youth of the dormitories to make ready for breakfast, and for all meals. This bell always was accompanied by hurried activity and eagerness and joy--youth in relaxed moments. It was in operation until the installment of the electric bell system in 1916.

But of all the B. C. Bells, none stirs the heart like the old "Chapel Bell," as it was called for many years. Long may it continue to ring as it does today. It has been revered by hundreds of students since the time of its installation, presumably at the time of the construction of "Stanley Hall," the former name of Memorial Hall. This bell, in the earlier days called students to worship, to their classes, to their dormitories at night, and to "lights out," then to bed at 10:30. It honored those who completed their four years of study by ringing out a song of victory. And again it honored these graduates by ringing and calling them to the service of the "Oracles of the Oak" immediately following their graduation. In those days it was truly a victory bell and it continues so to this day as it now honors the victories of athletic and debating teams.

The sound of the old "Chapel Bell" still sends its music over the hilltops and the valleys of this community. Its reception is evidenced by a friend of the college who lived three miles distant. One Sunday this friend called to inquire if there had been a tragedy at the college as he had heard the bell ringing during the night. It was a joy to tell him that there was no tragedy, but that a basketball team had won a victory for B. C.

Dr. John W. Wayland of the Class of 1899, a devoted and loyal alumnus and historian, revered the "Chapel Bell" as perhaps no other has done. The following paragraphs have been copied from a statement made by him in the volume "Bridgewater-Daleville College-1880-1930."

"In the early days we had no electric bells in the several buildings and rooms thereof to call to class or to stop the torture . . . The successive hours of the daily program were rung out from the tower of Stanley Hall (now Memorial Hall) where the college bell waited through dark and light, storm and calm, for the bell ringer's touch. Then it sent forth its clear, booming melody in its own timbre.

"It has always seemed to me that the old college bell now silent most of the time, has the sweetest tone of any small bell I have ever heard . . . On a hot day in the summer of 1927, in the city of Rome, Italy, while in my room at the hotel Ludovisi trying to get a nap, I heard a bell. I thought at first it was the old college bell at Bridgewater. Then I thought I was dreaming. Perhaps I was, but soon I was wide awake, listening to that bell. It is the only one I have ever heard that sounded like the one in the tower of Memorial Hall at Bridgewater College."

Dr. Wayland then concludes his story with these words:

"Ring out the old,
Ring in the new.
Ring on old college bell,
The time has come to bid adieu
But we'll not say farewell."

There are hundreds of former students and staff members who can speak of the college bell as reverently as Dr. Wayland, and who long to hear its tones again and again. May it ever ring announcing the success of athletic feats and all contests and achievements. But undoubtedly, at some future day the service of the old "Chapel Bell" will need to end, and it shall then find a place of rest and quietness. May that place be one of honor and security where it shall always tell the story of its long existence and of its reverence on the Bridgewater Campus and in the hearts of all alumni.

*"Ring on, ye bell, with joyful tale far over lake and lea
Make glad my lovely native vale as it was wont to be Ring out your cheerful earnest chime, and bid the gathering throng
Within these walls keep holy time, with heartfelt praise and song.--

Pat, a native of Salem, Virginia, was an English major and graduated in 1966. In college she served as class secretary during her freshman and sophomore years; a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic society; participated in the Glee Club, women's hockey, and the cheerleading squad.

Last year she was married to Dean L. Weber '67, who is a sociology major and has been the Eagle athletic trainer. Mrs. Weber is presently an elementary teacher in Rockingham County (Va.) and taught in Operation Head-Start Program last summer.

I Love Thy Sons and Daughters

Patricia Follmar Weber '66BA

I recently read a report which has appeared in more than two-hundred and fifty school and college alumni publications, entitled How Colleges Have Changed. At the end of this article, the writers stated several phases of college life which they feel are quickly vanishing from today's colleges; such as school spirit, freshman customs, singing, etc.

I am sure that any person who read that article must be wondering if there is a college which still possesses the type of campus life that has, of late, seemed to be fading.

Yes, there is; Bridgewater College.

As many of the readers of this college magazine are B. C. students, they are probably racking their brains trying to figure out what I am going to say next. A year ago I probably would have done the same if I read this article which I am now writing.

Ah, yes. The days were many and the days were long. How I hated Grammar! The food (gulp!) didn't always taste like Mom's, and 10:30 p.m. came so quickly.

But now I read about Berkeley, where Time reports that marijuana has given way to L.S.D. which costs $2.50 per "trip." However, it's not the college itself which has turned "acidhead." It's the people, the people that make the college.

My comparison may be a poor one for Berkeley has nothing in common with Bridgewater except people; and, as I said, the people are what make the college what it is.

At Bridgewater, the school spirit sometimes faded but it always returned; after all, there have to be some cloudy days. The freshman customs will last as long as there are beanies. Singing? Oh yes, maybe not always the right songs, but we were forever singing.

As the years go by, I will forget that I hated Grammar; I will forget the food; and, perhaps 10:30 may someday seem late. But I will never forget the people, the people that made my memories and that made Bridgewater College all that it was to me.

I suppose I could write a book of all the grand and glorious and sad times. Instead, I have taken several lines from John Holmes' lovely poem, The Bells Rang Every Hour, and have tried to put into words my feelings about Bridgewater College and the wonderful people I shall never forget.

It is for all present, past and future B. C. students, in hopes that they may someday hold in their hearts all the wonderful memories of Bridgewater College that I now hold in mine.

*"The bells rang every hour from the tower in the trees."
And the bells will never cease to ring;
At times, loud; at other times, with soft vibrations;
But, at all times, ringing.*

*Donne wrote, "Seek not for whom the bell tolls, it tolls for thee."
Our victories, our defeats, our joys, our sorrows;
The bell tolls for thee.*

*I first knew the bell in early fall
When the leaves were changing to their vibrant colors;
When I was changing
Perhaps to something vibrant.

*The bells were ringing that year
When I met those whom I would never forget.
The bells rang for years after that;
And with each new year
The bells rang,
And the people came;
And the people were good and bad,
And they were the people I loved,
And I love them still.*

*"They all come in a whirl of mornings and faces."
And with each comes the sound of the bell.
The bell in the tower?
No.
Where?
In the trees?
No.
Now, in my heart.*

*For the trees have faded.
The people . . .
The people have gone
But not faded.
For, if one fades,
Then part of my own being is forever lost.*

*And so, the tower, the bells ever ringing
Are in my heart.
And in my heart
I hear the ringing.
I feel the victories,
Defeats,
Joys, Sorrows.*

*I feel the nostalgia for days gone;
Gone to the land of never ending memories
And of ever ringing bells.*

Research At Bridgewater College

John E. White '58BA

Assistant Professor of Mathematics and Statistics

Since Bridgewater College is a small church related, liberal arts college the amount of research conducted is, in most cases, more limited than that done by larger institutions. These limitations are mainly the result of insufficient funds and the availability of adequate personnel. Although the number of research projects is not numerous and the financial investment is not extremely large, these projects at the college are making a significant contribution to the educational community.

Research at Bridgewater College can be broken into two parts; faculty research and student research. The faculty research projects are those mainly conducted by members of the faculty, although, in most cases, these projects also use student assistants. The student research projects are those which are conducted by the students themselves with minimal assistance from the faculty. Among current research projects now being conducted, are the following:

Art

The creative effort of the artist is possibly a little different in nature when compared to research in the sciences. However, the production of paintings and sculpture is the artist's research—and the exhibition of his work is an exciting experience for the artist and, in a sense, is the publication of his work.

Professor Paul Kline has been quite active as an artist. In recent years he has displayed his work in: (1) three of the last four Virginia Artists Exhibitions at the Virginia Museum in Richmond; (2) Southern Sculptors Exhibitions 1965 and 1966; (3) and will have two one-man exhibitions during 1966-67 school year. The first of these one-man exhibitions was at Bridgewater College from October 15 through October 31.

Biology

Dr. Robert K. Burns is now in the process of pulling together the loose ends of his studies of the opossum which have extended over many years. He is assembling data from microscopic studies for the purpose of drawing conclusions from which he hopes to have several publications. In a very simplified version, this research involves the treating of the opossum embryo with sex hormones and observing the changes in the development of the sex organs in the embryo.

Dr. Burns is one of Bridgewater's most outstanding alumni. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and is one of only five in the state of Virginia. Dr. Burns has been an Exchange Professor at the University of Paris and a guest lecturer at many institutions and recently gave a series of seminars on the opossum and other selected topics at the Virginia Military Institute.

Foreign Languages

Dr. Ellsworth Kyger is continuing his research on the dialects of the Pennsylvania German of Pennsylvania and the German dialects of Germany. This research consists of collecting vocabulary to compare pronunciations, usage, and the use of English loan words. Dr. Kyger is making his studies in Rockingham County, Virginia and in Pendleton County, West Virginia. At present he has completed approximately one-half of his work in the Pendleton County area. He wants to complete a study in depth of the Jerome and Dayton communities in Rockingham County.

A preliminary study resulted in the publication of a book which Dr. Kyger co-authored.

Physics

The Physics Department is conducting research in the critical region of the rare gas xenon. The research is in its third year after receiving a renewal grant of $34,000 from the National Science Foundation. The project is under the direction of Dr. Dale V. Ulrich. Assisting Dr. Ulrich is Dr. Dean Neher and three student assistants. According to Dr. Ulrich, the critical region of a substance is observed when the pressure and temperature are such that the densities of the gas and the liquid phases are the same. The project at Bridgewater College involves making localized density measurements by levitating a tiny magnet in the xenon sample.

In addition to the above research, during the summer of 1966 the Chemistry Department received a $3,025 grant from an alumnus, Dr. Galen Wampler, to synthesize radioactive antimetabolites for study of selective absorption and internal radiation of tumors. The compounds prepared by Dr. Heisey and his student assistants are now being tested by Dr. Wampler on tumor bearing mice.

Several departments on campus conduct research mainly involving students. This research is carried out in conjunction with honors courses, special problems courses, and with many laboratory oriented courses. Most of this research does not result in striking discoveries or the formulation of new theories. Its main purpose is to give the student experience in research methodologies.

One of the more active departments, involving student research, is the Psychology Department. The students, under the direction of Professor George Kent, conduct research and analyses in conjunction with laboratory courses in psychology. These studies have in the past resulted in at least one paper per year, on the average, being presented at the annual Virginia Academy of Sciences meetings. Examples of the types of research being conducted in psychology are: Study of transfer in split-brain animals; Critical flicker frequency thresholds in animals with organic brain damage; and, Quantitative study of performance by brain damaged children on the spiral after effects illusion.

Rufus Petre '65BA, discusses with Enh, the Center's mechanic, the fittings for the hose used in the irrigation pump.

SUCH NAMES AS SAIGON, Pleiku and DaNang have become familiar places in the war in Vietnam. But what many do not know is that there is another warfare going at these very same places. It is a struggle to save and improve the life of countless innocent natives caught in the power struggle of Vietnamese, Viet Cong and American forces.

A Bridgewater alumnus, Rufus D. Petre '65BA, a Brethren Volunteer Service worker, is serving as an advisor to the Pleiku Montagnard Agricultural Training Center. Begun by Thomas Sturdevant, International Volunteer Service worker in 1964, the Center serves the Jarai and Bahnar Tribes People of the Pleiku Province. The Center is financially sponsored by the government of Vietnam.

The basic function of the Montagnard Agricultural Training Center is to enroll trainees from the surrounding villages and provide instruction in such things as the basics of agriculture, animal husbandry, sewing, cinva-ram block making (a building block composed of five parts dirt to one part cement and requiring 30 days to cure), fishpond care, first aid and public health.

"Vietnam's Other Front"

Rufus D. Petre graduated from Bridgewater College in 1965 and began his alternate service to military duty in October of that year. As a Brethren Volunteer Service member, he received two months of training at New Windsor, Md. before being assigned to Vietnam for two years.

In the village of Plei Bung Ba, a registered nurse dispenses medicine to one of the Jerai families whose baby is sick. Rufus Petre '65BA, head advisor of Center and interpreter on left. Carved birds were bought by a member of the unit.

Classroom material is supplemented with practical work in the one and a half acre demonstration garden, work with 25-35 head of swine on the project, experience with the cinva-ram block-making machine, and visits to the Pleiku nursery and fish ponds. Students are usually recruited through contacts with the District chief or the village chiefs. Sometimes such items as seeds, blankets, hoes and saws are distributed as incentives to the trainees. Last year the Center graduated about 400 students. The entire staff at the Center is composed of Tribes People, with the exception of two Western advisors.

One of the programs which Petre has developed is the beginnings of extension work in the surrounding villages in the areas of public health, home economics, and agricultural improvement. "To me one of the aspects of serving people is to go out to them and not expect them to always come to you," states young Petre.

"One of my reasons for being here is to help rebuild the lost feeling that life has anything to offer."

While village extension work seems to move slowly, the ground-work in public health services is paying off. Demonstrations are given on how to take care of such things as scabies and body cleanliness. Those needing medical attention are brought to the clinic. The program at the Center currently reaches about 15-20 villages.

Mr. Petre's assignment has been to keep the Center and Village Extension work operating, advising, instructing, demonstrating and working along with the "cadres" (or native qualified instructors).

"I HAVE FOUND the Tribes People to be very gracious, honest, and hard working," says Petre. "They have a great desire to learn and want assistance wherever we can give it. — — — So much of my work brings back memories of my childhood in Nigeria. The experiences of my parents (Mr. and Mrs. Ira Petre '37BA), of Dr. and Mrs. Ira Moomaw and many others, have been extremely valuable in my work. Working in Vietnam under the war conditions affords an experience I could have gained nowhere else."

For Rufus, the work has been a tremendous challenge, physically and spiritually. "I now wish, that I had taken other courses while in college for I so often feel inadequate.

There have been many frustrating and discouraging moments but these serve as builders.

"My prayer is that this war may soon come to an end and that more human beings would join in the rebuilding of the brotherhood of mankind which has been riddled in this country so long. One of my reasons for being here is to help rebuild the lost feeling that life has anything to offer.

"It is my wish that more people, young or old, would devote a few years of their life to rebuilding underdeveloped countries or under privileged peoples. We Americans have so much to share with others and need to gain a deeper understanding of those around us. — Understanding will destroy so many barriers."

So the war goes on — not to destroy but from the frustrations of conflict, and from the ashes of destruction, to bring life and hope to a broken country and a broken people. May there be more volunteers for Vietnam's other front!

Petre assists Barbara Smallwood, R. N. volunteer from Detroit, Mich., as she discusses diseases of the respiratory system, colds, etc. The use of charts and flannel-board pictures aids in the presentation. Mo, the interpreter, is on the left.

Ecumenical Churchman and Distinguished Alumnus Retires

Dr. J. Quinter Miller '21BA, associate general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches and of the National Council of Churches for the past 36 years, has retired after a distinguished career of service to the Christian churches of America.

Dr. Miller came to retirement after 45 years of dedicated and creative leadership in the ecumenical movement.

A native of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, he graduated from Bridgewater College in 1921. During his college years he was president of his senior class and a three-letter man in athletics. He was captain of the basketball team and college tennis champion.

In spite of his busy life, Dr. Miller has continued to assume leadership for the Class of 1921 as its president and annual class alumni fund manager.

In 1961 Mr. Miller was named the Alumnus of the Year Award recipient by the Bridgewater College Alumni Association.

After graduate studies at Boston University, he began his ecumenical service as superintendent of Religious Education in Cleveland, O., and helped in the merger of the city's federation of churches and its council of religious education, the first merger of its kind.

On completing his doctoral requirements, Dr. Miller led the Connecticut Council of Churches as its executive officer for ten years, making the creative impact of its work felt in the conciliar movement across the nation. Under his leadership the first unification of Sunday School work and Council organization took place.

In 1940 he became associate general secretary of the newly formed Federal Council of Churches which was merged in 1950 with twelve interdenominational agencies into the present National Council of Churches.

Among the most significant contributions of Dr. Miller has been the planning of the General Assemblies of the Council. He has also served as executive officer of the British-American preachers exchange and has been president of the Church Executive Development Board, the newest effort to prepare more effective executive leadership for the many ministries of the church.

The General Board of the National Council of Churches honored Dr. Miller on the occasion of his retirement. In the statement of ap-
